3.4: Research Publications and Awards

3.4.1: Software used for Plagiarism

Plagiarism in Research:

Plagiarism is an illegal act of copying or stealing someone else's words or ideas and passing them off as one's own work. Every plagiarism act will carry serious consequences and results in a poor quality research papers. It will also degrade the research and development of the country. To prevent such illegal acts, the college follows certain procedures and norms.

1. The research scholars are motivated and encouraged to express their research contribution using their own ideas and words.
2. Secondly, they also use free online anti-plagiarism tools such as DupliChecker, Copyleaks, PaperRater, Plagiarism Checker etc., to avoid plagiarism.
3. Thirdly, following the UGC norms, for all research documentations, it is mandatory to produce the Research Analysis Report from the University which uses the authorised anti-plagiarism software such as URKUND.
